

Statement from Atlanta Braves on funding for new stadium

“The Braves will pay a significant amount of the expense of the new stadium, both in upfront costs and throughout the term of the lease. The exact number is being finalized with officials from Cobb County. At no time in our discussions with Cobb County, or any other municipality, have the Braves referenced a $450 million public investment. Reports of this figure are erroneous. When the final deal points are reached, they will be shared with the public and the media.”
